U.S. Patent and Trademark Office PTO-326 (Rev. 04-01)

Application/Control Number: 09/867,565

Art Unit: 1714

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities:

The specification of the present invention contains Table 1, which is on page 15. Page 15 is after the Abstract (page 14). It is not clear if the Table is meant to be a Figure or a part of the specification. If it is a Figure, it is not referred as such in the specification. The applicant is requested to clarify the nature of Table 1.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 3. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Gardziella (US 4,918,116).

The example 11 of the prior art of Gardziella discloses following processes for making friction material (col. 6):

Art Unit: 1714

Novolak resin is heated to approximately temperature of 100°C and added to a mixture of steel wool, brass shavings, coke, graphite, polyaramid fibers, barium sulfate, magnesium oxide, and aluminum oxide, wherein the mixture is also at 100°C.

Next hexamethylene tetramine is added at 80°C. Mixing continued for 3 minutes and then was molded to form friction linings. At the end, the composition was cured at 170°C.

In additional examples, composition mixture of Novolak resin (polymer of phenol and formaldehyde) was heated to 60°C (ex. 5-8, col. 4), 60-75°C in Table 2 (col. 5), 80°C in ex. 9. For the above examples, curing temperature was in a range of 170-180°C.

In the light of the above disclosure, the prior art of Gardziella anticipates the requirements of claims 1-6 of the present invention.

IDS PTO-1449

Information Disclosure Statement submitted by the applicant contains Japanese Abstract of the publication number 07-116303. This prior art is not relevant to the present invention, since it describes Electrically Driven Prize Winning Devise and not Friction Composition.

Priority Documents

Present invention claims foreign priority to JP 2001-152434 filed on 5/22/2001 and JP 2000-166300 filed on 6/02/2000. At this time the only certified copy of the priority document in
